

The Worshipful Company of Management Consultants

13th April 2021

Dear Fellow Clerk,

Unconscious Bias and the Management Consultant

Wednesday 19th May at 6.30pm

It has been a longstanding tradition in our Company calendar to hold an Annual Education Supper with an eminent speaker. We are following this tradition, but this year holding it as virtual event. We have chosen a highly topical subject - namely Diversity and Inclusion - and we are fortunate to have a renowned authority to address us.

Professor Binna Kandola is a Business Psychologist. He is Senior Partner and co-founder of Pearn Kandola. As well as leading the practice, Professor Kandola is the author of three new and critically acclaimed books on these subjects – ‘The Invention of Difference: The story of gender bias at work’, ‘The Value of Difference: Eliminating bias in organisations’, and ‘Racism at Work: The Danger of Indifference’. He is currently a visiting Professor at Leeds University Business School and at Aston University Business School. In 2012 the University of Aston awarded him an Honorary DSc – Doctor of Science. A Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts (RSA), he was recognised in 2004 by The Independent on Sunday as one of the UK’s Top Ten Business Psychologists. Professor Binna Kandola was awarded an OBE in 2008 for his services to Disadvantaged People and Diversity.
